Q-1: Read the short story below and answer the questions that follow.

The Magic Brush

Leo loved painting landscapes. One evening, an old traveller gave him a shiny silver paint-brush. The traveller whispered that this brush held a wonderful magic secret. The next morning, Leo painted a bright yellow banana on his wall. Suddenly, the painted fruit turned real and fell to the floor! Leo gasped in pure amazement. He quickly realised his special gift. He did not paint gold or jewels to make himself rich. Instead, Leo walked through his dry village and painted fresh food and clean water pumps for the poor families. His kind heart changed the entire village forever.

The Clock's Song

I stand on the wall with a clean, round face,
And my two thin hands run a steady, long race.
I tick and I tock through the bright, sunny day,
To tell all the children it's time for their play.
But when the dark night brings the stars out to peep,
I whisper quite softly, "It's time for your sleep."
I never get tired, I don't stop to rest,
I quietly watch as you snooze in your nest.

Dear Vidhan,

I hope you are doing well. I am writing to tell you about the wonderful school trip I went last week to Samul Dairy!

We reached the dairy in the morning with our teachers. First, a guide showed us a short video about how the dairy collects fresh milk from farmers. Then, we wore special caps and went inside the big processing plant.

It was amazing to see huge machines cleaning bottles, packing milk packets, and making paneer and butter very fast. Everything was super clean and shiny. At the end of the tour, they gave us sweet flavored milk, which was delicious. I learned how milk comes safely from the farm to our kitchen tables.

I wish you had come with us too. We will talk more when we meet.

Yours lovingly,
Aron
